

I don't know how to talk about it

“I don't know how to talk about it” is a learning event, based around a story of Marty, his wife Marge and a nurse called Jo. It was designed to support residents, relatives and all groups of care home staff to talk about key issues around palliative care. In June 2008 it was run in 6 care homes who were involved in a pilot programme with Highland Hospice. The intention of Highland Hospice is to support care homes to develop in line with the Gold Standards framework.

By sharing that work, these posters can be used to stimulate discussion in your care home.

Connect in Care is funded by NHS Quality Improvement Scotland and NHS Education for Scotland in partnership with the Care Commission. It is administered by the University of Edinburgh.

Connect in Care is closely associated with My Home Life UK and the Care Home Learning Network Scotland.